Service Profile: Internal Audit

Description:

Systems Audit

Internal Audit's prime role, as a statutory service, is to offer advice and to provide assurance on the adequacy of the system of internal control operating throughout the Council. The principal mechanism by which this is achieved is by undertaking systems-based audits. The conduct of an audit using this methodology enables auditors to:

- Assess how internal controls are operating in a system, thereby forming a view on whether reliance can be placed upon the system.
- Provide management with assurances that systems are adequately meeting the purposes for which they were designed.
- Provide constructive and practical recommendations to strengthen systems and address identified risks.
- Use findings to feed into an overall opinion on the control framework of the Council, thereby helping to meet the demands of Corporate Governance.
- Furnish appropriate evidence for external audit and other review agencies.

Compliance Audit (Central Systems)

These audits are undertaken to provide a level of assurance that the main financial systems of the Council are operating effectively at establishment level. The audits involve the testing of the main systems in operation, including payroll, debtors and creditors in order to ensure the proper and accurate recording of transactions.

Contract Audit

Expenditure on both capital and revenue contracts forms a significant part of the Council's expenditure. Therefore it follows that it is necessary to maintain an adequate and effective internal audit of that expenditure. Contract audit within the Council is predominantly conducted using a systems-based approach although this is supplemented by a review of individual contracts or projects.

Computer Audit

The Council needs to have sound and robust computer systems to ensure that they produce timely and accurate information in a secure environment thus ensuring that information at a strategic, service and business unit level is available to support the management of the Council.

The CIPFA Computer Audit Guidelines define computer audit as follows:

"The application of auditing skills to the technological aspects of an authority's business processes. It embraces the independent reviewing and testing of the Council's practices and procedures relating to:

- The secure provision of business processing.
- The processes for developing and acquiring new systems and facilities.
- The economy, efficiency and effectiveness of the use and exploitation of IT facilities".

Computer audit within the Council is undertaken using a systems-based approach, undertaking work through our risk-based audit plan and regularly undertake work in the following areas:

- Strategic and organisational IT issues
- Pre and post implementation reviews
- Installation and access control reviews
- Security reviews
- Business continuity planning
- Software control reviews

Consultancy and Advice

Control Advice for system/procedural changes

In order to achieve this, Internal Audit needs to be advised at the earliest opportunity to assess the extent of their involvement, if any. This could involve the review of project documentation or the attendance at project meetings. However, Internal Audit should not become operationally involved in the system or project as to affect independence.

The document "Computer Audit Guidelines for Council Staff on Standard Controls for Existing and New Computer Systems" has been drafted in order to provide a simple guide on controls for Council staff who use existing computer systems or services or who are involved in the implementation of a new system, including small systems developed in Access or Excel. The Guidelines make reference to relevant Council policies/guidance and detail the various types of controls and audit trails that should be built into all systems. Finally there is reference to back up and recovery requirements and Business Continuity Planning.

Audit Certificates

Where external funding has been provided to the Council it is often a requirement that Internal Audit check and certify the grant claims, returns or accounts. In order to be able to accommodate this work, Service Directors are asked to notify the Chief Internal Auditor at the earliest opportunity.

Fraud Investigation

Initial Notification

Financial Regulation 13 provides the following requirement with regard to the notification of suspected fraud or irregularity:

“Whenever any matter arises which involves, or is thought to involve, irregularities concerning finance, assets or property of the Council or any suspected irregularities in the exercise of the functions of the Council, the Head of Service concerned will immediately notify the Director of Finance & Corporate Resources. The Chief Internal Auditor will take such steps as are considered necessary to investigate any such matters”.
